The purpose of the Comprehensive Examination is for the student to demonstrate integration of social work knowledge and the capacity for producing independent and systematic scholarship consistent with the standards and expectations of PhD education. The exam provides an opportunity for the student to synthesize and integrate content in required and elective doctoral courses, particularly content on social work practice theory and models, as well as research, in a critical examination of the literature in the student’s specialized area of interest. The exam is intended to show the student’s critical thinking abilities in examining and synthesizing empirical evidence and contributing to knowledge building.

The written exam paper and oral review constitute the Comprehensive Examination of the student’s command of his or her topic relevant to the field of social work. Together, they should:

- Demonstrate that the student has acquired a sufficiently broad understanding of the field;
- Demonstrate the student’s proficiency in the required curriculum;
- Determine the student’s preparedness to continue work toward the dissertation and his or her capacity to contribute to the field through an in-depth study of a topic relevant to the practice of social work.

Format of the Integrative Specialization Essay: The format of the written exam should be a Word document in the APA style, with 12-point font (double spaced), and include page numbers. The written exam should be 45-50 pages long (references not included).

Format of the Oral Review: The oral review will be conducted by the Dissertation Committee, the Director/Co-Director of the Doctoral Program, and one external reviewer from the School of Social Work to be chosen by the Director/Co-Director of the Doctoral Program in consultation with the Dissertation Committee Chair, for a total of five reviewers. During the (90 minute) oral review students will have the first 20 minutes to present a brief overview of their paper and response to reviewer feedback. A PowerPoint presentation by the student is not required, given that all reviewers will have read the exam. Following the presentation, the reviewers will pose questions to the student. At the conclusion, the student will be asked to leave and reviewers will decide if the written exam merits a pass or fail.

Evaluation: The Comprehensive Examination will be evaluated as a “pass,” “pass with revisions,” or “fail” at the end of the oral review process. If a student’s written exam is deemed a “pass with revisions,” the student will have two weeks to revise their exam. The review committee must agree if the revisions are sent only to the Dissertation Committee Chair or to the entire review committee for final approval. If a student’s written exam is deemed a “fail,” the student will have one additional opportunity to re-write and orally review their written exam by the end of the academic year.

Timeline:

- The written exam will adhere to the framework below to be modified by a student’s Dissertation Committee.
• In mid-May (date to be identified based on the calendar), students will receive the exam topic/questions.
• Students will not be able to consult with their Dissertation Committee on drafts of the written exam or any substantive questions regarding the written exam.
• The written exam is due by the last Friday in August prior to the start of classes in the fall semester and is to be submitted to the Director/Co-Director of the Doctoral Program.
• The written exam will be reviewed by a student’s Dissertation Committee, the Director/Co-Director of the Doctoral Program, and one external reviewer from the School of Social Work to be chosen by the Director/Co-Director of the Doctoral Program in consultation with the Dissertation Committee Chair, for a total of five reviewers.
• Written feedback from this review committee will be submitted to the Dissertation Committee Chair approximately four weeks after the student submits their written exam. The Dissertation Committee Chair will have approximately one week to summarize the key points of the feedback and provide it to the student and the review committee on the last Friday in September. After the oral review, the detailed feedback from each reviewer will be provided anonymously to the student.
• The oral review will occur by the end of October.

Opt out: Students who entered the doctoral program in the 2016-2017 or 2017-2018 academic years may “opt out” of this revised Comprehensive Examination process and elect to take their Comprehensive Examination in the prior format. Students who wish to “opt out” of the revised Comprehensive Examination process must submit their request in writing to the Director/Co-Director of the Doctoral Program by April 1 of the spring semester in their second year in the program.

Instructions for Integrative Specialization Essay:
The purpose of the Comprehensive Examination is for the student to demonstrate integration of social work knowledge and the capacity for independent and systematic scholarship consistent with the standards and expectations of PhD education. The Chair of the student’s Dissertation Committee will draft the Comprehensive Examination question(s) in consultation with other members of the Dissertation Committee based on knowledge of the student’s research interests. In the written exam, the student will address an issue or problem of importance for social work related to their likely dissertation topic and discuss significant historical, theoretical, policy, and research issues associated with the topic. This discussion and analysis should demonstrate readiness to begin work on the PhD dissertation.

Recommended Outline:

A. Statement of the Substantive/Problem Area
The student will define and demonstrate a familiarity with the substantive topic. Discussion should demonstrate an understanding of the prevalence, nature, historical antecedents, and recent trends associated with the problem area or topic. Biases, prejudices, and omissions, especially those relevant to vulnerable populations, should be explicated.
B. Analysis of Theoretical Frameworks for Examining the Problem Area
Two or more social theories that provide a context for understanding the onset and/or persistence of the identified social problem/topic should be identified and critically reviewed. Discussion in this section should include an assessment of the utility of the selected theories for informing social interventions aimed addressing at the problem/topic.

C. Review of Key Practice and Policy Approaches in the Problem Area
The student will identify key practice and policy approaches aimed at preventing or ameliorating the problem. One major practice and policy approach should be selected and described in detail. Effects and limitations of this practice and policy approach should be identified and discussed. Suggestions for policy and practice changes and/or interventions should be noted.

D. Critical Review of Relevant Research
The student will discuss and critically analyze relevant empirical evidence and research related to the problem/topic. This review should include a discussion of the dominant methodological approaches used to examine the problem/topic. Important gaps in the knowledge base should be identified. The section should conclude with the identification of two or more research questions that the student views as necessary to advance knowledge pertinent to the problem/topic.

E. Conclusion and Implications
In this section the student will summarize the problem/topic and identify proposed next research steps. Briefly identify a research project that addresses gaps in the area of research, including strengths and limitations of the research project inherent to the proposed methodology.
